Report of the representative on internally displaced persons

Internally displaced persons

At its forty-ninth session, in 1992, the Commission on Human Rights requested the Secretary-General to designate a representative to seek views and information from all Governments on the human rights issues related to internally displaced persons. It also requested the Secretary-General to submit a comprehensive study to the Commission at its forty-ninth session (Commission resolution 1992/73).

At its forty-ninth session, in 1993, the Commission on Human Rights requested the Secretary-General to mandate his Representative for a period of two years to continue his work aimed at a better understanding of the general problems faced by internally displaced persons and their possible long-term solutions. The Commission also requested the Representative of the Secretary-General to submit annual reports on his activities to the Commission on Human Rights and to the General Assembly and to make any suggestions and recommendations enabling him better to carry out his tasks and activities (Commission resolution 1993/95), which was approved by Council decision 1993/285 of 28 July 1993.

On 20 December 1993, at its forty-eighth session, the General Assembly adopted without a vote resolution 48/135, in which it welcomed the appointment of a Representative of the Secretary-General on internally displaced persons and the extension of his mandate by Commission resolution 1993/95 of 11 March 1993 a period of two years. It called upon all Governments to facilitate the activities of the Representative and urged all concerned United Nations agencies and organizations to provide all possible assistance and support to him.

At its fiftieth session in 1994, the Commission on Human Rights encouraged the Representative, through dialogue with Governments and all intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations concerned, to continue his review of the needs for protection and assistance of the internally displaced. It further invited the Representative to make relevant suggestions and recommendations and requested him to continue to submit annual reports on his activities to the General Assembly and to the Commission.
